ABSTRACT

This study was conducted to examine the trends of using internet by the students of Sargodha University. It also examined the gender difference regarding internet usage. The sample of the data was taken from the University of Sargodha. A survey of 252 students both male and female was randomly selected to participate in the study. The result of the study showed that most of the students of Sargodha University consider internet as a tool for information. They use it for study purposes. They think that internet is an easier way to get information than library. Further, it is recommended that students should be provided with internet at their institutions and they should be given proper education regarding internet usage.
