

FORMATION OF TRAINING MOTIVE AT YOUNG FOOTBALL PLAYERS NOT TRADITION THE METHOD

Gapparov Zakhid, Khasanov Otabek Khamidjonovich
Uzbek State University of Physical Culture and Sport

ABSTRACT

In given article the role of nonconventional motivation of training process of young football players is experimentally established by introduction of rating system. Introduction in training process of an individual estimation of activity of each football player (during 3 months) has improved technician-tactical skill and productivity of competitive activity of young football players.

Keywords: Motivation, the young football player, success, training process, activity, competition, points an estimation, a condition.