

HARMONY OF POSSIBILITY AND REALITY IN LANGUAGE

Nigora M. Yusupova – Lecturer, Karimov I. Tashkent State Technical University
Manzura I. Usmonova – Lecturer, Karimov I. Tashkent State Technical University
Rano M. Muslimova – Lecturer, Karimov I. Tashkent State Technical University
Nasiba E. Umarova – Lecturer, Karimov I. Tashkent State Technical University

ABSTRACT

Uzbek linguistics finished its substantial step. In this step linguistic possibilities were defined depending on the dialectical methodology. Now it is stepping into the period of investigating the speech realization of linguistic possibilities. The new – Uzbek substantial-pragmatic linguistics relies on synergetics, open systems theory and linguistic graduonymy as a methodological base. Uzbek substantial linguistics worked based on the principle “speech→language”, and its successor. Uzbek substantial-pragmatic linguistics works on the basis of the principle “language→speech”.

Keywords: Investigating, realization, language opportunity, phoneme, morpheme, lexeme.