

THE STUDY OF SOCIO-PSYCHOLOGICAL CAUSES OF DIVORCE: ON THE EXAMPLE OF THE REPUBLIC OF KARAKALPAKSTAN

R. G. Ibragimova

Base doctoral student, Nukus State Pedagogical Institute named after Ajiniyoz ranosh7@mail.ru

ABSTRACT

Family as a separate psychological system is the main basis of social and economic development of society, since it is the foundation of society that brings a person into the world, grows, nurtures and re-forms. For this reason, a number of measures are being carried out in our republic aimed at ensuring the peace and harmony of each apartment, happy and harmonious growth of children in families. Opportunities for development of our country in political, social and economic spheres are growing day by day. The use of these opportunities depends in many respects on the human factor, and it depends on the strength of the family institution. The family will not leave its negative impact on the comprehensive development of the country unless it is solid. In this article, we will examine the psychological causes of family divorce, its negative impact on society.

Keywords: Family, family, socio-psychological causes, reproductive function, divorce, causes, pedagogical, psychological causes, tradition, social environment.